A REAL BARONESS ON STAGE HERE

"Mrs. Mike O'Brien" On the Play Bills, Really the Wife of Baron Von Zeiber.

MARRIED HER TO A TITLE

The Purpose of Her Father Carried Out and Her Husband Soon Left Her.

A real live baroness on the stage of t local theatre is an aristocratic sight that seldom confronts a Richmond audience, but the "Bljou" offers the attraction this week, and all for the small and insignificant price of half a dollar, as the circus "barker" is wont to say.

This title in itself is full of infatuation, but when it is attached to a lady whose past is dim, mysterious and alluring, the combination simply gives genuine thrills to all those who are truly romantic.

Baroness Marie Katherine von Zeiber Baroness Marie Ratherine volume in her histrionic work, forsakes her Teutonic name and appears as Mrs. Mike O'Brian in "About the Town," a play in which those elever comedians, Murray and Mack, are starring. As the Irish lady, the baroness wears the best in the wardrobe and warbles a few things dangling with runs and Irils.

Mr. Ollie Mack was kind enough to introduce The 'Times-Dispatch man to this titled member of his company. "Isn't Mack a little dear?" romarked the lady. "I'd steal him if he were not sended up in a tight package."

"It isn't often that we have kings, dikes and baronesses at the Bijou the newspaper man cut in, with his bost bow. "I wish you didn't have this baroness," complained the 'Mrs. O'Brian of the stage. "It isn't because I love the stage, but because I need the money." in her histrionic work, forsakes her Teuthe pencil requested a recital of the "sad story of her life."

"Go on," said Mr. Mack; "tell him the whole truth except your age, He don't expect the truth about that." After a bit of persifiage, the baroness was prevalled upon to tell this story;

"I was, before my marriage, Marle Katherine Packer, daughter of Governor Packer, of Pennsylvania, and nicee of the president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. My father determined that I should marry a title, and so when I was only sixteen I was taken from the convent and married in Philadelphia to Baron von Zelber, a licutenant in the Imperial Guards of Prussia. The Kalser gave his consent to our marriage, and for five years I was happy, although my husband during that time was wild and somewhat dissipated.

of Philadelphia, and who married the same year 1 did, was amongst my friends.

"After five years of reckless expenditure, my dot was exhausted, and my husband, deserted me in Paris and left me to starve, for an old woman of sixty, with a horrid past. I was only twenty-two then and she was sixty. Just think of it! Wine, women, racing and cards are enough to ruin any man, and Baron von Zelber had all of these vices. I had to make my living or perish from hunger. To I went on the concert stage and returned to America with the Imperial Band of Vienna. The next year I was leading soprano with Sousa's Band; then I went with the Boston Symphonic Orchestra, and afterwards with the Pittsburg Orchestra, and afterwards with the Pittsburg Orchestra, and the Salem Orchestra. I have always been a dramatic prima donna, and I want to sing a good number before I leave this town, in the people what I can do."

"Are none of your wealthy relatives alive?" asked the newspaper man.

"Yes, some of them. My first cousin, Miss Mary Packer, is the richest woman in Pennsylvania. They have given me the cold shoulder since I went on the stage, but I'll get a fortune some day from the estate."

The Baroness stated that her "wicked" husband was still cutting a wide swath in the continental capitals, and that she had not gotten a divorce.

"I'm a fair example of international marriages," concluded the lady. "I don't believe they pay."

Old People Just as Happy as Young.
Age cannot wither nor custom state
the infinite variety of life.
When the right food makes one new

When the right food makes one new each day there seems as much simple happiness when one is old as when young, but bounding health is the requisite, and right food produces that.

A happy woman of 77 tells her experience:

"For three years," she says, "I was greatly troubled with a nervous affection of the stomach, which at last brought me to such a condition that I could neither eat nor sleep with any sort of comfort. I grew very despondent and felt that my hold on life was very uncertain. It was difficult for me to find food that I could digest. My doctor kept me on a dict of rice for a long time, but it did not seem to give me any strength.

"I am glad that at last I decided to try Grape-Nuts food, for it has done a wonderful work for me. Before I had used up the first package I began to take a new interest in life, and I rapidly increased in health and strength. My stomach has regained its normal tone and in the two years that Grape-Nuts has been my only food, I have not had a sick day. I am for years old, and Grape-Nuts has restored to me the pleasure of living. I am sorry I did not begin sooner to use it. I cannot praise it too highly."
